Dear Michael,

UK Government information

The Economy, Energy and Fair Work Committee is carrying out an inquiry on the impact of COVID-19 on Scotland's economy, workers and businesses. As part of that inquiry, the Committee has written to the UK Government on a number of occasions seeking to obtain data about UK Government business support schemes. The Committee has also written to invite a UK Government representative to appear before it on these matters. Links to the relevant correspondence are attached in an annexe to this letter.

The request to appear before the Committee was turned down. Whilst the Committee was provided with available information in correspondence, and other requested information was published, the Committee found that the exercise of seeking the information has highlighted a gap in inter-parliamentary and governmental relations.

The Committee would like to suggest that a reciprocal protocol on the provision of information to committees could be developed between the Scottish and UK Governments and Parliaments (potentially involving the other devolved institutions). This could clarify how committee requests for information from both governments will be responded to. The protocol could also set out expectations in relation to requests for members of both governments to appear before committees of each parliament.

The Committee would ask you to consider pursuing the agreement of such a protocol with your counterparts at the UK Government (and possibly other devolved institutions). I am writing in similar terms to Alister Jack, Secretary of State for Scotland.

I am copying this letter to the Ken Macintosh, Presiding Officer, Bruce Crawford, Convener of the Finance and Constitution Committee and Christine Grahame, Deputy Presiding Officer, in her capacity of Chair of the Conveners Group.

I would be grateful to receive a response within five weeks of the date of this letter.

Yours sincerely,
