Barry Haslam submission of 14 March 2021

I totally agree with Ann Kelly (PE1651/YYYYYYYYYY).

I too feel powerless after 35 years of campaigning against successive governments. They are there to protect the health and wishes of the citizens but, in this case, seem to do exactly the opposite. I believe that big business and the fat cats that run Pharma are too powerful.

We keep on telling the truth because I believe a tipping point in prescribed drug dependency has been reached in this country or is very near.

Scripts issued in 2020 in England alone for antidepressants numbered 80 million and that was only in primary care.

We fight on and continue to shine the light into the dark, mucky corners.
